

COOP ORGANIGRAM

The coop organigram is a very important tool in the definition process of your coop working project. In this template, you will be asked to write the names, or, even better, paste the pictures of all the assembly members (and divide them in different membership categories if it is appropriate for your project)*. Then you can go on creating the teams that will perform all the functions your coop working project will need. As you can see from the example, the guys of Music Coop created several teams according to their cooperative needs: the Marketing and Customers' Relations , the Operation & Logistics, Parties & Events and the Finance one. Now that you see how they structured their coop, you are ready to create your own coop organigram: have fun!

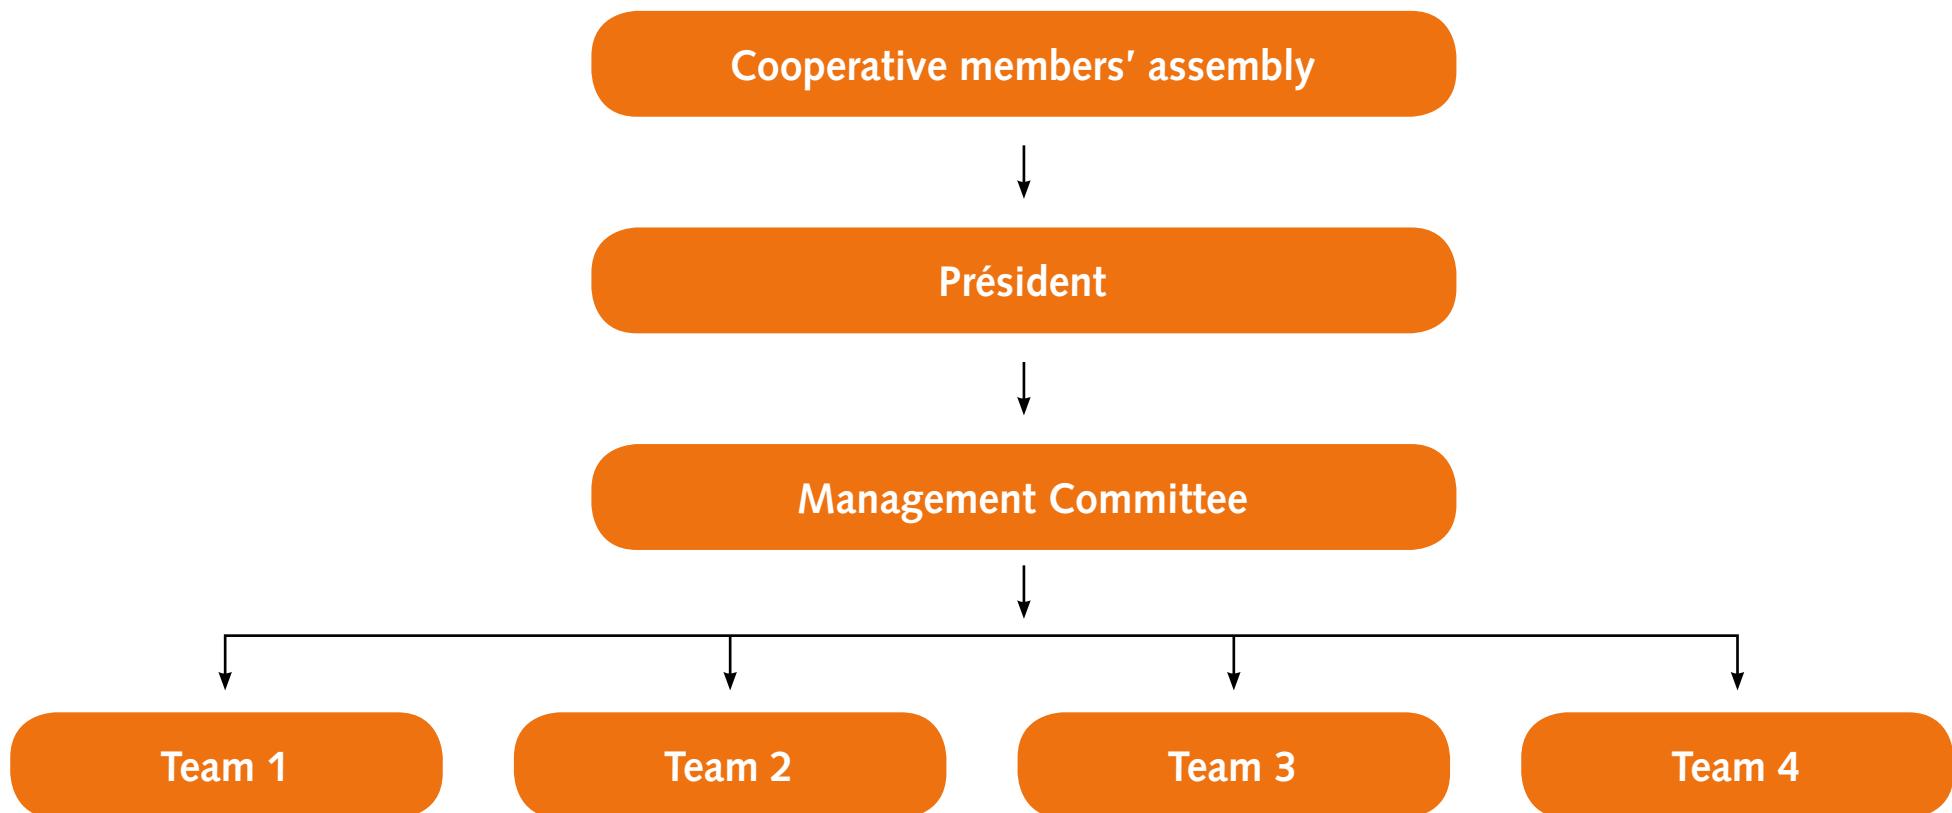

* Please consider that cooperatives may include different types of membership (do you remember the characteristics of social coops mentioned in Step 2 trainer's guide?), so that people can participate in different ways: some may participate as volunteers (helping from time to time), other as consumers, other as supporters or sponsors, etc... Even teachers, parents and organisations can be invited to participate under one of these different memberships.
